

KID OF MRS. HALL UNMOVED WHEN HELD FOR JURY IN SLAYING

ACCUSED PAR SENT TO JAIL

The witness only was called. This was Lieutenant John L. Day, police photographer of Newark, N. J. Day testified that he could not find the photographic plates taken at the scene of the fatal murder four years ago.

At the conclusion of Day's evidence, Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson announced that he would present no more evidence.

"I have more evidence," said Simpson, "but this I will present to the Grand Jury."

PRISONERS ARE UNMOVED.
Robert H. McCarter, chief of the defense counsel, then argued before Judge Chazy as to the rights of the defense to present testimony.

In reply, the judge said:

"The only question before this court is: Has the prosecution made a prima facie case against Stevens and Carpenter, sufficiently strong to hold them for trial by the Grand Jury? In my opinion, the prosecution has clearly established a prima facie case and I therefore order Stevens and Carpenter held without bail for Grand Jury action on the charge of murdering the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills."

Immediately after Judge Chazy's decision, Stevens and Carpenter were taken back to the jail. The man displayed much emotion at the turn of events.

James Mills, husband of the murdered chorister, and his daughter, Charlotte, who had been spectators at the hearing, left the court room smiling.

Robert H. McCarter, chief of the defense counsel, would not confirm a report that he would apply for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Stevens and Carpenter.

Special Prosecutor Simpson also issued a statement today regarding the gun with which it is presumed the murders were accomplished.

He said that a man named Stanley Tregel, now living in New Brunswick, N. J., had reported that a man named William A. Winter, whereabouts unknown, had in his possession such a gun.

According to Tregel's story, Winter overheard a discussion of the murders in a Philadelphia rooming house. He entered the room after he had been visited by those who were discussing the case and found under a mattress a gun wrapped in a newspaper.

He then took the gun to his home in a Philadelphia rooming house. The prosecutor said he was confident of an indictment against Stevens and Carpenter.

"We have disclosed only part of our evidence," he said. "The rest will hold for the trial jury. I am not worried about the outcome of this case."

State Senator Simpson declined to call a "special Grand Jury" as soon as possible to submit the evidence on which Carpenter and Stevens were held.

The regular Grand Jury is in permanent session, and can be called in a few days, but the special prosecutor said he would not present his case to the jury, "because the members have talked too much about the Hall-Mills case."

A new regular Grand Jury succeeds the present one September 21.

COP, DRUNK IN AUTO, ESCAPES GUN FIRE

Roaring through Wakefield in a stolen car that four policemen finally disabled with bullets, a man identified by pedestrians as another cop off duty today fought a gun battle with his pursuers and escaped.

The car, owned by Dr. Richard Dutton of Avon street, was abandoned in Salem street in the Montrose district after a furious chase. The hall of bullets in the heart of the business section sent pedestrians to cover.

Two shots were fired by the wild driver and 11 by his pursuers as the machine lurched and swayed from the main street, along the lakeside, down Lowell street and into the Montrose district.

Those who told Chief James J. Pollard that the driver was a Wakefield policeman, off duty, reported he seemed drunk.

A statement will be forthcoming later, Pollard said. He admitted a police man, who had not reported for duty, had been sent for.

Dr. Dutton was making a call in Franklin street, Wakefield Junction, when the car was taken. He notified the police. Patrolmen George de Roche, John G. Gates and Charles McDonald were just leaving the police station when the stolen car sped into view. The driver failed to halt at their command and several shots were fired in the air.

At the town square Patrolman Charles Clynan aimed his gun at the fugitive and the latter, turning in his seat, returned the fire and drove the officer into a doorway.

30-FOOT LEAP SAVES "LONE WOLF"

A thirty foot leap from a railroad bridge won freedom for Everett's negro "lone wolf," who up to the moment he jumped was closely pursued by several hundred men and boys.

Aroused by the attacks attributed to the "lone wolf" the night before, post of Everett was on the watch for him.

A man answering the description of the "lone wolf" was discovered standing in the shadows in the yard of Mrs. Hansen, at No. 6 Laurel street, Everett.

At the cry of "where he is," a number of men in the vicinity started for the Benson premises on the run, but the elusive "lone wolf" got outside the circle before it could close on him by vaulting a fence.

Then the chase was on, with the pursuers gathering in numbers almost as rapidly as the "lone wolf's" feet were finding off yards.

Over fences, sheds, roofs, alleys, the chase went. The police were notified, and officers were hurried to the scene. And always the "lone wolf" kept just a little ahead of his nearest pursuer.

The chase ended dramatically at the railroad bridge when the "lone wolf" made his big leap. Pursuers did not believe the man would land without being injured. But although police and pursuers searched the vicinity of the bridge for nearly an hour, no trace of the "lone wolf" was found.

ACCUSE WOMAN IN GAINES CASE

Boston, Aug. 15 (I.N.S.)—The jury was scheduled today to get the case of Wallace C. Gaines, accused of killing his daughter, Sylvia, twenty-two-year-old Smith College graduate.

John D. Carmody, one of his attorneys, arose in the court room and stated that Gaines suspected his second wife, Sylvia's stepmother, of committing the crime.

When she heard this statement, Mrs. Elizabeth Gaines burst into tears.

Carmody said that Gaines thought that jealousy between his wife and daughter might have been the motive for the murder. His wife had previously attempted to end her life because of friction between Sylvia and herself, he said.

According to Carmody, Gaines thought his second wife, in a fit of jealous rage, had become a "tiger woman."

QUIZ SERVANTS IN GEM THEFT

Newport, R. I., Aug. 15.—Chief Patrick L. Sweeney of Newport and Harry Parsons Cross, attorney for the Vanderbilt interests, today continued their interrogation of servants in connection with the robbery of jewels valued at thousands of dollars from the Summer home of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Thirty-nine servants at "The Breakers" have been quizzed, and John E. Murray of the Newport police has taken dozens of finger prints, which are being compared with those discovered on Mrs. Vanderbilt's empty jewel cases found on an adjoining estate.

Atty. Cross said he would not make a valuation on the jewelry at this time, but $500,000 to $700,000 is considered a conservative estimate here.

There was an unconfirmed report here that one of the insurance policies covering the stolen jewels contained a clause requiring that their loss be reported to the police immediately. This was not done, as Mrs. Vanderbilt considered it a matter only of her own family.

HUB MARKET 100 NEXT WEEK

One week from today Faneuil Hall Market reaches the ripe age of one hundred years. Celebration of the event, however, will not take place until September 14, when for four days the marketmen will stretch themselves to do fitting honor to the anniversary.

At one time there was talk of impeaching Mayor Josiah Quincy when he proposed to establish a great market all under one roof. He was inaugurated in Faneuil Hall.

ROXBURY BAR IS TAKEN IN RAID

After waiting in hiding for five hours, seven officers of the head-quarters liquor squad today raided a two-story saloon at No. 318 Dudley street, Roxbury, where they arrested one man, seized 18 gallons of alleged moonshine and 1,000 empty bottles and stripped the place of its bar and fixtures.

James J. Healy, twenty-four, was arrested on a charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale and held for arraignment in Justice Court. When he entered the place, according to the police, officers Thomas Doherty, Oliver B. Garrett, Tobin, LeDuff, Fortin, Wally and Clark followed him in and stopped him in the act of pouring liquor down the sink. Further search of the place disclosed a back room with peep-holes for keeping a watch on the outside, and in this room the twenty gallons were found. It is alleged.

STOCKINGS—and a price—that will help the "budget"—for, even if you are an expert budgeter, silk stocking bills are hard to keep within a budget's boundaries, unless those limits are very elastic.
You just must have quantities of the light colors, for the beauty of the lovely shades is marred unless stockings are fresh and spotless.
An opportunity to get a new supply to finish the Summer or to begin the Fall at an unusual saving. College girls will find the medium weight satisfactory for all around wear.

MYSTERY AIR CRAFT TO BE FIREPROOF

Washington, Aug. 19 (Universal)—Details of the navy's latest "mystery" aircraft were revealed when the contract was let to the Aircraft Development Corporation of Detroit, a Ford subsidiary.

Navy experts declared it to be the most revolutionary and remarkable improvement in lighter than air craft in a decade. It accomplishes one-half of what the designers claim or it.

The most startling revelation in the design is that it is to be fireproof. This feature will enable it to use the highly inflammable hydrogen gas with safety and without the cruising radius to 2,500 miles where helium gas would limit it to 200 miles. It has only one gas compartment.

The ship is to be egg-shaped, 155 feet long with a maximum diameter of 33 feet. It is just one-fourth the length of the dirigible Los Angeles and will have but one-tenth of her gas capacity.

The metal used in the construction of the shell is duralumin, only a few thousands of an inch in thickness. The metal will be covered with a special preparation to prevent rust.

Two engines developing 200-horse power each, making 200 revolutions per minute, will propel the dirigible at 150 miles an hour.

It was said that this comparative "little" craft, with its lone hydrogen gas compartment in a tail, is

Forests Real Rain Producers of the Country

Itasca, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Forests contribute more water vapor to the air than lakes and streams and consequently produce more rain, according to a report of the United States Forest Service, St. Paul, Minn., told the forestry section of the International Congress of Plant Sciences today.

Measurement of evaporation, he explained, has shown that lakes and streams contribute less water to the air than have moist soils; that bare moist soils contribute less than land covered with grass and crops; and that of all vegetative coverings, a dense forest contributes most vapor.

Not limited to the comrade, and following the shooting of the victim, the police, who worked over the victim with a pump.

PRINCE RUSPOLI IS SHOT BY POACHER Rome, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Prince Umberto Ruspoli, member of one of the oldest aristocratic families of Italy, was shot and killed today by a poacher, whom he had surprised upon the Ruspoli estate, near Rome.

MAN CAUGHT IN BALLOON'S RIGGING, FALLS 50 FEET

Springfield, Vt., Aug. 18.—Twenty times a balloon ascension is made at country fairs, spectators speculate upon the chances of a spectator who might inadvertently be carried up with the big bag. It happened here.

Pearl Hotter was caught in the rigging of a balloon at a country fair from the Springfield Fair grounds and carried 50 feet into the air before he dropped to the ground. He

VISITORS GET 'FREEDOM OF CITY'; WHATEVER THAT IS

New York, Aug. 18.—Mayor Walker delivered something he says he hasn't got, when he gave "the freedom of the city" today a delegation of Italian advocates.

"I give it to you cheerfully," said the mayor, "but I don't know what it means. I know I haven't got it. If I'm driving along in my car and a red light shows I've got to stop."

HIS LAST MEAL IN DEATH HOUSE SOME MIXTURE

Canton, N. Y., Aug. 18.—His approaching execution in Sing Sing Prison had a strange effect on the appetite of William Hoyer, negro murderer.

Six hours before he was scheduled to sit in the electric chair, Hoyer selected for his last meal a few dainty dishes, which included: "One Long Island duck, mixed with one can of peas and one pound of rice, to be cooked into a brown stew and served with dumplings."

FEWER DRUNKS WITH LIQUOR

Government control of liquor in British Columbia has not only decreased drunkenness and eliminated bootlegging, but has enriched the treasury. F. G. R. Gordon of Vancouver, a member of the board of directors of the Constitutional Liquor League, declared:
"Under prohibition there," Mr. Gordon said, "bootlegging and rum-running were rampant and the province was getting anything out of its prohibition law except more drunkenness, more crime and larger expenses."
Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles are "from three to five times as drunk as those cities across the line, Vancouver and Victoria, where they have a sane system for the operation of the liquor business," Mr. Gordon said.
Speaking of the revenue derived from liquor taxes, he pointed out that the estimated sales of liquor amount to about $12,000,000 a year, and that of this sum, British Columbia receives one-half or $6,000,000. Under the same system, Massachusetts would derive a yearly revenue of about $21,000,000, he declared.

NEW ARREST IN MELLETT CASE

Robert Knox won't be lonesome any more, even if he is all the way from Buffalo, and didn't know anybody in Boston, when he came to join the ranks of the 15. Law students. Because, you see, he's going to get married.
He has filed intentions to marry Madeleine M. Manning, charming 21-year-old cashier at the Metropolitan Theatre.
"We are going to make a 200-mile tour of the country on our honeymoon," declared Miss Manning. "Probably we'll go to Canada, and through the West."
The wedding is to be at St. Aidan's Church, Brookline, Wednesday.

AUTOS KILL 850 IN SIX MONTHS IN NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y. (C.N.B.)—Eight hundred and fifty persons were killed by automobile accidents on New York State highways during the first six months of the year, the State Motor Vehicle Bureau announced today.

A total of 27,261 were injured in automobile accidents. Approximately 23,250 accidents were reported to the Motor Vehicle Bureau.

KELLY HERAPS OPPONENT

Carrying the fight into Dorchester and the South End, Sheriff John A. Kelley and George E. Curran, candidates for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Suffolk county, continued to attack each other.

While Mr. Curran branded Kelley as a candidate of both Republican and Democratic parties, the latter retailed by impugning the latter's motives.

Referring to Curran, Sheriff Kelley said: "Candidly, I don't think he could distinguish between a set of cardinal, historical Democratic principles and the Articles of Contract in the coming Jack Dempsey-Genie Tunney fight."

KANE SPEAKS AT BAILIES

Councillor Curran charged that Kelley in the last majority campaign showed Republican influence by remaining in the fight when he was hopelessly eliminated, so that a Republican could be elected.

Paul J. Kane, candidate for the Democratic nomination for district attorney of Suffolk county, addressed a half a dozen meetings, including an address before the Kane Women's fund yesterday afternoon in the city.

PLEY PHOTOGRAPH KEENE

Protests against the candidacy of Charles O. Keene for the Republican nomination for Suffolk county district attorney, on the ground that some of his papers were signed before the candidate's name was inserted, were taken under advisement by the State Bar's Law Commission.

Two other candidates for office, Kenneth F. Phelps of Dedham, candidate for district judge, and David H. Hobson, candidate for the Republican State Committee from Worcester, also were mentioned in the insufficient names and late in the papers.

Woman Lawyer for Guilty but Busy Autoist

Kittery, Me., Aug. 18.—Modernsity brewed into this sober New England laundry today when Winifred W. Ward of Canton, Mass., appeared in court as attorney for Cornelius Brown of Fuller street, Brookline, Mass.

Brown was arrested in Kittery on Sunday charged with getting out of line with his automobile. The first woman lawyer to make an appearance in the local court said that it would be a hardship for the busy Mr. Brown to appear himself, so she offered the plea of guilty to the charge of reckless operation of an automobile, and paid a fine of $5 and $4.00 cost.

WINNING FIGHT TO

SAVE GIANT TREES

San Francisco, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The fight to save the Sequoia National Forest from fire seemed to have been partly won today.

Although the flames jumped the Keweenaw River and burned into the edge of the Mt. Grove of the huge redwoods, most reports indicated that most of the grove could be saved and encouraging progress was being made against the flames.

More than 600 men today were in the fire line, which is 20 miles long.

Camp Devens, Aug. 18.—Today is "Foreword Day" in camp. The Second Battalion of the C. M. T. SHEFFIELD IS TO RESIGN

Paul Smith's N. Y. Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Reports that James H. Sheffield is going to resign as ambassador to Mexico without confirmation, Secretary Weeks of the State Department said today, indirectly, but emphatically, Mr. Kellogg said his state was a result of some press dispatches which have been stated that Mr. Sheffield would resign because of a belief that the attitude of the State Department in the case of the Mexican Revolution was over the head of the state of Mexico would be justified.

HAY FEVER

Is No Longer a Problem

Ercolin

Breaks Up Severe Attacks in Few Seconds

An Unparalleled Record of Achievement

Here are the proven facts regarding Ercolin—the first successful local treatment for Hay Fever. Thousands of sufferers—skeptical about the worth of any treatment for Hay Fever—have become permanently convinced of the value of Ercolin and now are enjoying the summer free from the discomfort of Hay Fever.

A single application of Ercolin convinces any Hay Fever sufferer. Physicians are successfully prescribing Ercolin for cases of Hay Fever which have yielded to no other treatment. Ercolin is used in hospitals. Druggists recommend Ercolin without reservation—they have seen case after case of Hay Fever relieved by this new treatment. Everywhere the results are the same. Ercolin has proved its therapeutic efficiency by an unparalleled record of achievement in successfully treating a disease which baffled medical science for years.

Instant Relief

Ercolin is not a product which you use and then you forget. Ercolin gives instant relief. A single application clears the eyes and nose, soothes irritated membranes, stops burning and itching. Ordinarily Hay Fever symptoms vanish completely within a few seconds. If the attack is unusually severe, a second application may be necessary.

Pollen Proteins Neutralized

Ercolin owes its remarkable efficiency to the fact that it neutralizes pollen—the irritant common to all pollens which bring on Hay Fever. Warm Ercolin comes in contact with the irritated membranes of eyes, nose or throat. It reacts instantly on the protein substance which has set up the irritation, and neutralizes its effect.

Easy to Use

Any method which insures Ercolin reaching the irritated membranes will be found successful. Eye cup for the eyes and nasal douche for nose and throat are recommended. Use Ercolin freely—it is absolutely harmless guaranteed to contain no alcohol, narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Do not use oils, talcums or creams with Ercolin. They only coat the mucous membranes and prevent Ercolin from reaching the source of irritation.

A Preventive

Ercolin not only breaks up severe attacks of Hay Fever but

Bewildering Array of Apparel to Greet Tennis Week at Newport

LOVELY FROCKS AND hats, smart shoes and other feminine fripperies are being gathered together by Newport's maid and matrons, in anticipation of the social season's climax immediately in the offing. It is "Tennis" week, the week of the entire Summer Newport concedes to be supreme.

EVERYONE IN THE NEWPORT social swim appears at the Casino for tennis. Summer Newport always dresses beautifully, for the city by the sea is Fashion's centre as well as society's. Newport's masculine contingent, also, lends its interest to the sartorial picture.

AND FOR "TENNIS WEEK" the frockwears are all replenished, for the round is unceasing. A crowded program necessitates almost constant "going on," which, of course, bespeaks untold variety and lavish display.

BOSTON'S CONTINGENT at Newport is much in the social limelight. Two Thayer housewives, Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Macdonald, Thayer's, the former bustling two lovely daughters, are gay with a round of informal entertaining.

FOR TENNIS WEEK Mrs. Thayer and Thayer plans a series of informal luncheons, with a large and smart dinner or two and Mrs. Thayer has three daughters at the cards. The Thayers have DINNER AND LUNCHEONS, and a hostful of guests make up the Thordike program. Mrs. Thordike and Miss Isabel Thordike, still another Boston contingent, is Mrs. F. Lottrop Ames, and she also has a charming daughter.

FOR THAT POPULAR Newport-Boston girl, Miss Natalie Merrill, there seems to be a veritable scramble to entertain in her honor. Latest on the cards was the Albert J. Wright dance at Harbor View, repeating the younger set's attention.

TALL AND SLENDER, dark-eyed and smartly caparisoned, Miss Merrill was in Boston, doing all the balls and parties that filled the debutante program. She is a daughter in the New, Grand, Merrill family, and has Berkshire as well as Boston and Newport affiliations.

—Before explaining my preparations to whip myself for shape for the coming championship battle with Jim Haney, I want to say a few words about a recent incident that has been so widely discussed by sporting writers that I think my own views concerning it will interest the readers of my articles.

"Harry Wells and I met the other evening at the residence at Marlborough Garden, and shook hands. 'How are you, Harry?' I asked. 'Fine, how are you, Jack?' he answered.

And that was all there was to the meeting. I thought that Harry's friends probably thought he was going to say something else, but that Harry said nothing more.

New York, Aug. 19 (AP)—Tiger Flowers was an 8 to 1 favorite today to retain his middleweight title in his fifteen-round bout here tonight with Harry Greb, the former king of the middleweights.

Inasmuch as Greb has been out-gunned twice by the negro, experts believe that the Pittsburgh windmill will have to muster a knockout to win, although he is reported to be in much better shape than when he lost the title to Flowers.

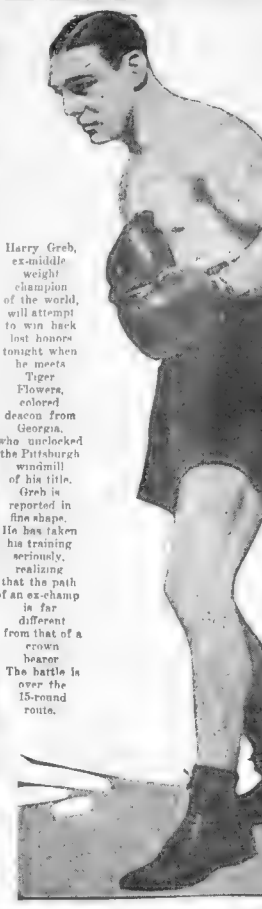

Greb will enter the ring involved in legal difficulties. A receiver has been appointed to collect 40 per cent of Harry's ring earnings to pay the interests of Jimmy Mason, his former manager, who after a split with Greb brought suit in the courts to determine the validity of his managerial contract.

ATTEMPTS COMEBACK

Harry Greb, ex-middleweight champion of the world, will attempt to win back lost honors tonight when he meets Tiger Flowers, colored deacon from Georgia, who unclocked the Pittsburgh windmill of his title. Greb is reported in fine shape. He has taken his training seriously, realizing that the path of an ex-champ is far different from that of a crown bearer. The battle is over the 15-round bout.

WHITE SOX HERE FOR 3-GAME SERIES

By Nick Flattley

EDDIE COLLINS and the Chicago White Sox, who have been knocked back a bit from the American League money scramble, are in our midst for the agreed purpose of getting back toward the dollars at the expense of the native Sox. Eddie and his six men, who were the sensations of the early campaign, are likely to find it no picnic to get the path rocky and tortuous in these days.

The Sox have a record of 17 wins and 17 losses, a .500 record. They are in the midst of a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox, who are in the midst of a three-game series with the New York Yankees.

Tribe-Reds Feud Ends Before Cincinnati Court

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 19.—Frank Wilson, the brave outfielder who figured prominently in the young war that was staged on Redland Field in July, was found guilty on a disorderly conduct charge by Judge Alexander this morning. Sentence was suspended.

Inspector Kane, who arrested Wilson, testified that the player did not hit him, and had merely become excited when he thought his roommate, Jimmy Walsh, was getting the worst of a scuffle at the plate with Val Pilecki. Most of the Braves attended the hearing.

WILLS TO BOX AT ARENA NEXT WEEK

Harry Wills, negro challenger of Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship, will be in the arena next Tuesday night and in a four-round exhibition bout in the Arena will afford Bostonians an opportunity to judge of his qualifications and right to meet the champion for the title.

Bike Stars in Strict Training

Carl Stockbush and Willie Fenn, the bike riders who are to represent the Braves track in the big team sprint match with the Newark oval, are putting in severe days in their training. Despite the rain of Monday this pair mounted road wheels and pedaled along the North River roads as far as Manchester.

Orlando Pini, the famous Italian star, and Reggie McNamara, the "Iron Man" of the bike game will represent the Newark oval. Pini last Saturday won the international downstroke at the beach shore and gave a brilliant display of sprint riding. McNamara's ability is well known locally. All four riders will ride each one mile heat and a point system will decide the winner.

DILLBOY FIGHT SHOW SET FOR TONIGHT

The Dillboy Foot, Veterans of Foreign Wars, boxing committee has everything set at Turf Oval, Somerville, to stage its open air boxing show which was originally carried off weeks ago tonight. It is the report of the weatherman that conditions should be perfect for the almost pure to lose their mitts.

Contests will be in all seven of the championship classes, namely the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight divisions. The large interest is in the heavyweight division, which aggregation of boxes the fans just love to see socking away.

Practically all the leading amateur mitt wrestlers from this section and other states of New England are down to camp for the much covered honors that go with the fighting of the kid boxes.

A Mistake in Addition

By Percy Crosby

MEDBURY SAYS—

THIS country has prohibition, anti-violence ordinances and a wonder for the prevention of cruelty to animals, but what we need most of all is a law against after dinner speakers.

THIS average dining room craver is a man who has nothing to say and takes an hour and a half to say it.

AND lots of times they don't even tell us what they're talking about.

INSTEAD of finger bowls, the waiter should serve mumbled apologies after the dessert.

A city should make lockjaw compulsory.

too bad that the hosts don't or chloroform in the dining room.

ONLY do just the opposite. They serve us black coffee to keep us awake.

A MAN generally attends a banquet to eat. If he wanted to listen to a monologue he'd go to a barber shop.

WITH a twenty-five cent shave he can get all the talking he wants.

SPEAKERS don't make a dinner a success. One of the nicest of us who can attend a dinner and banquet.

THE only time one of these guests ever opens his mouth is when he wants to fill it.

AND once he gets it filled he shuts it off again.

OF course, at every banquet a few words are necessary. Somebody has to eulogize the man who's paying the check.

AFTER a dinner is over, the majority of the diners are anxious to leave. They want to return their tuxedos.

SOME renting agencies charge you 25 per cent extra if you keep the suit over night.

AND as the tuxedos have to be returned in good order, a man likes to hurry home and take the spots off of it.

I can't say more; but I can write "The woe is it."

Naida is a fine, great-eyed woman, dark as ebony, came and sat on the arm of his chair. She pressed a wan cheek close against her husband's.

DAILY SHORT STORY

WHEN A WOMAN LOVES

By Merlyn Swift

"If it's true, Naida? Is it really true? Come, darling, let me hold it in my hand. Blindness was never easier to bear. . . if they really taken my story. How we have worked and plotted, you and I, Naida. It was 'The Far Traveler' they bought, you say?"

The blind man crinkled a long yellow slip in his thin fingers, felt the perforations that covered the order for two hundred dollars payable to Jared Grant for his story. Pride, exultation lighted his face.

"At last, Naida!" He gave her no chance to speak. "Thank God, at last. I can't say more; but I can write 'The woe is it.'"

Naida is a fine, great-eyed woman, dark as ebony, came and sat on the arm of his chair. She pressed a wan cheek close against her husband's.

She quoted him with a kiss. He smiled resignedly. A real secretary might have been preferable to Naida. Naida seemed so preoccupied at times.

"Let us go to work," she said. "We were nearly through with your Montreux story. Come! Get your thinking cap on!"

Jared, at her urging, applied himself to the completion of a novelette. His thoughts came even more haltingly than usual, but Naida, never looking at him, wrote steadily on.

"Oh, hang it! I just can't think of 'em," exclaimed the blind man. "That's drop it for awhile. I could sit here forever trying this slip. I shall be great some day, Naida. I fear it is dull for you just taking down another thoughts." He could not see the hurt expression in her look.

"But, Naida—"

Day passed in a haze of joyous planning. First they celebrated with a dinner surpassing any in their year of effort. They were like youngsters on a holiday. When Jared went to bed his wife stayed up and though he called sleepily to her many times, she roused no answer save the averting click of the typewriter. Naida, he thought . . . "Wait," she said, "I must get my handkerchief."

She was gone for a moment. In her hand she held a sheet of typewritten papers worn from fruitless journeys through the night. From the typed paper she read him "The Far Traveler." It was not the story which appeared in the Cosmos at all. It had the same title, but Naida had written the printed poem. Just a Naida would continue to ride all the successful story as signed "Jared Grant."

SERIAL GIVES REAL FASHION DETAILS

Fascinating Story of College Life Also Is Found in
'The Woman Game'

"Fine feathers make fine birds," they say—with good reason—the cause smart clothes make smart women show where only a plain little girl stood before. That's what happens in "The Woman Game," in real life, as well as in the new story.

You'll be delighted with the graphic way that Jack Hamilton tells what he thinks on that subject. And he ought to know.

In her hero for "The Woman Game," the serial from the next Monday's Boston Evening American can, Katherine Brush picks a man who knows girls.

He's only a college boy, but he goes around a lot and keeps his eyes and ears open. He knows girls, because he has a lot of opportunities to do so.

You get something that knocks you in the eye—he tells one little girl seeking advice—and wear it.

And that isn't all. Jack knows the correct way to succeed with women.

"The Woman Game" begins in the Boston Evening American next Monday.

Watch for it.

Dear Old John Bull

When You Owe Him It's DIFFERENT

PARIS JOURNALIST: "Mon Dieu! To make the France to pay her debts is disgraceful! It is an appalling and intolerable indignity! We will never forgive you, new-vai-ri! It is a crime—VE VILL REPAY!"

BRITISH TAXPAYER: "Good for you, my boy. Now you're talking! Best thing you've said for years!"

Above you see a cartoon, and underneath it the lines written by an Englishman who is MUCH AMAZED THAT FRANCE IS SLOW TO PAY HER WAR DEBTS, to England.

The British mock the Frenchmen who say, with good reason, that England should be only too glad to wipe out the entire debt that France owes her.

If it hadn't been for France, England would have been conquered by the Germans.

Great Britain had no army ready, and only the extraordinary courage of Frenchmen, keeping the Kaiser back from the English Channel, held in check the power of Germany while England was slowly getting her army ready.

Britain lent money to the French liberally, as well she might, with the enemy at her door, and the enemy airships above. That has always been the British custom.

When Napoleon was rampaging around Europe, England was only too glad to lend money to anybody that would fight him, while she got ready, and while Napoleon got tired.

England really might, as this Frenchman suggests, forgive France her debt. But when you owe money TO ENGLAND that is ONE thing. When England owes money TO AMERICA that is another.

The Britisher in this picture considers it very preposterous that the French should hesitate to pay, and the British cartoonist and editor make fun of France for demanding more lenient terms from England. And the same Englishmen feel that it is disgraceful for the United States to ask England to pay what she borrowed, much of that money used to keep her commerce going, much of it lent by her to other countries on the continent, that they might do part of her fighting.

When the shoe is on the OTHER foot the situation is different.

England feels that France ought to pay HER. This country feels that Britain should pay the United States, and intends that Britain SHALL pay the United States. The terms made with her are very lenient, half of what she might have been compelled to pay.

Why Pick One?

Heroines of the World War Were All Who Honestly Made Sacrifices

Delegates to the Woman's Overseas Service League tried to choose the "Outstanding Heroine of the World War."

Four names most prominently mentioned are:

Edith Cavell, the English nurse, who was executed by the Germans.

Marion Crandell, the first American woman killed by shell fire.

Jane Delano, head of the American Red Cross nurses, who died in France.

Katherine Baker, another Red Cross nurse, who died in foreign service.

As to the outstanding hero of the war, the body adopted the statement:

"The hero was the private soldier who went into the dirt and mud, slept in trenches with rats running over him. He was the hero above any of the generals you might mention."

In choosing "the outstanding heroine," why not stick to the same point of view?

The heroine of the World War was the Red Cross nurse, the Salvation Army girl, the telephone operator, the Gold Star Mother, all who honestly and bravely made sacrifices.

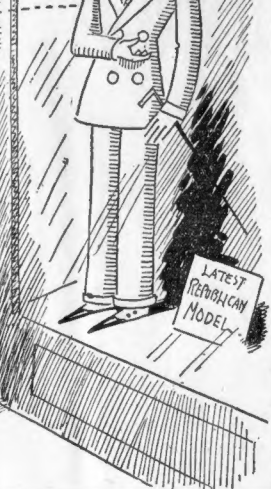

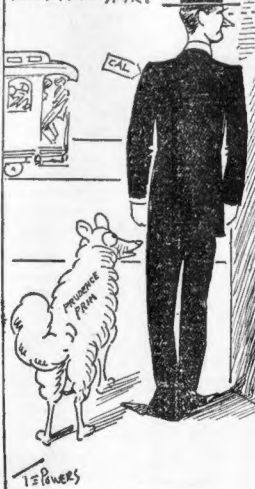

Why pick one?

HABIT CARRIES ONE ALONG IN LIFE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHAT would you do if you were handed a million dollars?

Would you throw your hat up in the air, if you were wearing one? Or pinch yourself? Or call up all your friends? Or arrange a big party to celebrate?

The chances are ninety-nine to one that you would go on doing what you were doing before.

In California the other day the wife of a tire-shop worker was frying eggs for supper.

She was notified that she had been left a hundred million dollars by the death of a forgotten uncle who had made his fortune in the Kimberly mines of South Africa.

What did she do?

She went on frying the eggs, carefully turning them to be sure they would not burn.

It takes time to adjust yourself to a big shock and in the meantime habit carries you along.

The habits of a lifetime won't change over night even for a million dollars.

A sudden change in the way a person lives is as difficult as a sudden change in direction by a speeding automobile.

The centrifugal force of habit resists.

The great majority of us, under the sudden shock of altered conditions, would show the same characteristic as the feed store driver who had never taken a day off in fifty years.

He was given a day's vacation and spent it loading around the store.

Women think that each time they fall in love that it is the LAST TIME. Men, when they fall in love, always say the LAST TIME is the FIRST TIME. And so the game goes on. Men and women play. First, FOR each other. Then, WITH each other. And sometimes, FINALLY AGAINST each other. For, in the end, ONE

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

An instinct is a propensity prior to experience, and independent of instruction.—Paley.

"The greater error to take facility for misadventure, than without discretion is no better than a more pardonable folly.—Lafontaine."

Letters, such as are written from wise men, are of all the words of men, in my judgment, the best.—Bacon.

At twenty years of age the will reigns; at thirty, the wit; and at forty, the judgment.—Lafontaine.

Love is the greatest of human passions.—Cicero.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHY can't we have more good, old-fashioned common sense? I lament Mr. Edwards.

Now when he was a boy, most everyone used common sense. None of these new-fangled high-faloot notions—these trashy schemes for raising youngsters and giving them gilt-edged educations, these money plans for coddlers criminals—No sense!

None of that for grandpas. Punks in those days used plain horse sense. And that's what we need to use now. That's what would cure our Crime Wave and Youngster Generation evils. Just good, old-fashioned common sense. Why can't we have it?

We can't have it, my friend, because we never have had it. There never has been such a thing as "common sense" since the world was first.

Sense has always been most rare and uncommon in the human ranks. Stop and think. How long has humanity been a going business? Only a few millions years, which is but a pinch of time in the face of eternity.

We once lived as animals did. Emotions ruled us. Fear was God. Fear, hunger, sex—that was the triumvirate which governed our lives to a great extent.

We flatter ourselves that we are thinking animals—reasoning animals—sensible animals.

We aren't.

Act on impulse.

WE'RE FEARING ANIMALS—HUNGRY, FIGHTING ANIMALS—LUSTFUL ANIMALS.

We still act on impulse rather than on reasoning. We're still afraid to stray from the herd—afraid to be different. It's dangerous to be different. It's tremendously difficult to reason things out.

That's why "sense" is still most uncommon. It's rare even—it was even rarer in grandpa's day.

Mr. Edwards snorts an indignant denial to that. He points with pride to the simple program of his youth—rough and ready discipline, freedom from fads and "new-fangled theories."

Those folks used common sense," he says.

No, they didn't, Pal. They were just men then, and there are sensible men now, but more and more they're becoming emotional processes of carnivorous animals. For instance, this charming practice of beating little children with fists and sticks. There was no common sense about that. It was exactly on a par with the curf with a wildcat administered to its young. And got the same result: it was the rule of fear and it beget fear. It added nothing whatever to the sum total of intelligence.

Short on Reason.

The treatment of criminals, the inadequate educational systems were equally short on reason.

But, nevertheless, most people felt comfortable under that system. They felt comfortable because that system made life easy for them. It's much easier to use force than it is to use reason. It's much easier to go along without fuss about prison reforms and civic hygiene and child training than it is to institute such things in our daily life. It's much easier to be stupid and intolerant and slow and conservative than it is to be intelligent and tolerant and brisk and progressive.

And so because we like the old easy ways we called them "common sense," and bewail their passing. It's the old easy way you're longing for, friend Edwards, and not sense. Nor common. Nor quite safe. Think of that, when you say yourself "sensible at some new regime and longing for common sense."

It is really sense you want? Or something that won't make you use your brain? (Copyright, 1926, International Feature Service, Inc.)

'HASTE MAKES WASTE' IS JUST AS TRUE TODAY AS EVER

Are you constantly breaking things or inflicting slight injuries upon yourself and making errors all because you are working under pressure with too little thought?

If this is a fact you are to be pitied but it won't keep a job for you. Once your employer begins to notice your nervous, ill-mixed efforts, the master reduces itself into too much work and not enough planning.

More moderate workmen, less energetic employees may be doing more in a given time than you because they plan well and work more carefully.

There is not so much to be done over again.

You think to be careful moment to moment speed but you're wrong. To begin slowly with particular attention to details of how and when to turn out good work and a lot of it.

Don't loaf; don't start too late; don't keep putting off. You want to trust a man or a woman with a particular job when that one is continually making blunders.

Plan first, start in time and carefully increase speed; then you won't do so much damage. "Haste makes waste."

In the Hoping Line

Eminent Visitors to Summer Capital Optimistic for Publication

Advices from the Summer capital report certain eminent visitors as being somewhat optimistic in the hoping line.

They exuberantly "hope" that the terms upon which our gag-ruled Senate agreed to enter the World Court will be accepted by its other members and that the completion of this betrayal of American traditions will soon be signalized.

That is, they "hope" this for publication.

If, on the other hand, they have at heart the true welfare of either the United States or the Coolidge administration, they must really be hoping intensely that the reservations attached to our acceptance of the League's Court will suffice to hang the matter up indefinitely.

To be sure, the brave, honorable and American thing to do would be to rescind the Senate's un-American action as soon as possible and put this nation back on its old basis of independence from foreign entanglements.

That is what should be done and that is what, sooner or later, will be done.

But since so abrupt an "about face" would be rather humiliating for the Senators who engineered the coup of January 27 last, the collapse of their error through the refusal of foreign nations to accept its terms would afford them a convenient, and we doubt not, a most welcome door of escape.

In interpreting much of the political news of the day it is best to read between the lines.

Publicity for Crime

Attention was drawn to a familiar fact when Judge Lindsey, in an address at the City Club in Chicago, said that the apparent crime wave in the United States was rather due to greater publicity than to more crime.

It is well-known that newspaperdom has made considerable progress in recent times.

Added to this is the fact that crime is essentially interesting as a news feature, and is sought for by readers of most papers.

In former times a crime in any locality was likely to be buried in obscurity, but nowadays the information is flashed over the whole country.

This point should be taken into consideration by those who lament over the increase of crime.

Which to Save?

Nels Johnson was in a boat with his wife and child. It overturned. He could save one, but not both. He saved the boy.

Which to choose? Not in a study, with time to reason. In the water, with even his own safety a matter of doubt. The splashing, crying dear one near him. And he had to pick.

Perhaps it was at random. The nearest.

Possibly his Continental name, Nels, denotes an immigrant, or one of recent European traditions. In that case the choice was easy. The child always.

Which would you pick?
